

2016-2017 TRO Webinar Series

The Journey to TR Publication...the good, the bad and the ugly

February 8, 2017
1:00 pm – 2:00 pm

Objectives:

1. By the end of the webinar participants will be able to define a minimum of two supports required from their organization to accomplish a publication.
2. By the end of the webinar participants will be able to define a minimum of two supports provided to authors by the TRPR Journal editors.
3. By the end of the webinar participants will be able to define a minimum of two positive rewards to the publication process.

Program Description:

Two unique recreation and leisure interventions, two different experiences, two different articles come together to host one webinar highlighting what it takes to get to publication. Joellyn Leblanc and her team at St Joseph's Healthcare Hamilton co-authored Cool Running: An Interdisciplinary Approach to Mental Health and Wellness Programming in the Forensic setting. Jill Gibson, Recreation and Leisure Partner at Sienna Senior Living and her team co-authored connecting generations: Sienna Cyber Seniors Program. The co-authors will share their unique journeys which lead their teams to publish an article in the TRPR Journal 2016. During this discussion, the two co-authors will explore challenges and opportunities throughout the publication process, the support provided by the review committee, the time required to publish and positive rewards to publication.

Presenters:

Jill Gibson, R/TRO, Registration Committee Chair
Joellyn Leblanc, R/TRO, Membership Services Committee Chair

PCCs:

- 1 professional contribution point
- Purchase a PCC Transcript in advance
- Follow the login and post-test instructions

CTRS Renewal

- Follow the login and post-test instructions
- Contact Amanda at: communications@trontario.org for your documentation that may be submitted for CTRS renewal.

Register:

TRO Members may register for FREE. Non-members, please create a free public user account on the TRO website and purchase the session at the TRO Store. After registering, you will receive a confirmation email containing information about joining the webinar.

<https://trontario.org/continuing-education>